FOREWORD.

The family record of the descendants of Johannes and Daniel Wunderlich herewith given represents the work of many years. It contains the records of the descendants of these two brothers in seventeen distinct family lines. There were twenty children: four sons and seven daughters of Johannes and seven sons and two daughters of Daniel. One son of Johannes and one son and one daughter of Daniel left no descendants. The other seventeen families have been, as far as possible, followed down to date, and in nearly every case the dates of birth, marriage and death are given. From the original homesteads in Pennsylvania and Virginia these children and grandchildren of the emigrants have multiplied and spread out in widely extended ramifications until they are scattered throughout the United States.

In this record no attempt has been made to give any biographical sketches, as such an undertaking would have delayed for some years the publishing of the work and would have increased its size to such an extent that it could not have been compressed within the limits of one volume, however large that volume might have been made. It is purely a genealogical record, and as such it is issued in the hope that the many members of the family may find in it some things that will be new to them, as well as much that will interest them.

CHARLES ALBERT CORNMAN.

INTRODUCTORY.

The preparation of a genealogical record as complete as the one given in the following pages, is a work, the magnitude of which is realized by few who have not had experience in such work. In the collection of the material necessary to make up this record Mr. Cornman has spent about forty years. It has necessitated the writing of thousands of letters and the deciphering and translation of hundreds of old documents.

In prosecuting a work of this kind one of the discouragements one meets with is the failure of those interested to answer letters seeking information, and the information thus sought at first hand frequently has to be obtained from some other source. This indifference on the part of many increases the actual work to be done and it also increases the possibility of errors creeping in. No doubt there will be some who will be disappointed because the record of their families is not given in more complete form, or because of errors in it; but in almost every instance of this kind the reason for such omission or error will be found in the failure of those interested to answer letters of inquiry.

But viewing the work as a whole one cannot but be surprised at the completeness that is everywhere apparent, and the writer is confident that the members of this large "Freundschaft" will unite in bestowing upon its compiler the credit that is due him, as well as their thanks for preserving in lasting form the record of the family before the destroying hand of Time had rendered such a record impossible.

HISTORICAL.

THE WUNDERLICH family is a very ancient one and one that has numerous representatives at the present time throughout Germany, as well as in America. The origin of the family name is not known. Family tradition has it that the progenitor of the family was a certain Heinrich der Wunderlich; but who he was, when and where he lived, and why he was "der wunderlich," history does not relate. It can easily be seen how the name might have originated from the strange or peculiar actions of some individual whose associates would naturally say "John is peculiar or strange"—that is, wunderlich.

The earliest record of one of the name is found in 1448, when Hans Wunderlich, who was born in Kotelen, in the margravate of Baden, came to Neuburg with the Margrave Rudolph von Hochberg, who later made him his treasurer. He subsequently translated his name into French, calling himself Merveilleux. Some of his descendants continued to call themselves by the French appellation, while others resumed the name of Wunderlich. The family became one of considerable distinction and took a prominent part in the affairs of different cities. In 1476 Heinrich and Rudolph Wunderlich, of Zurich, participated in the battle of Murten. From 1489, for over two hundred years, different members of the family were members of the Great Council at Zurich, the honor apparently descending from father to son. Other positions of trust and honor held by different representatives of the family were Major Butler of the Monastery of the great Cathedral, in 1553 and 1606; Chief Bailiff of Maennedorf, Heinrich, in 1559; another Heinrich in 1578 and 1601; Hans Felix in 1607, and Rudolf in 1611, and towards the close of the seventeenth century Jacob was Prebendary of the Monastery of the great Cathedral. In 1562 Hans Wunderlich was governor of the province of Kronau, and in 1578 Heinrich Wunderlich was Justice at Cappel.

Of the descendants of Hans Wunderlich who went to Neuburg in 1448, a great many occupied positions of honor. Johannes, a grandson of Hans, was appointed by Francis I, of France, as his official interpreter with the Helvetian Confederacy, and Henry II appointed him administrator of the embassy to the same. The son of Johannes, also named Johannes, was commandant of the relief troops sent to the city of Berne, in 1610. David, another son of Johannes, had a son, also David, who was interpreter for Duke Henry von Longueville at the great Peace Congress at Munster, in 1648—the Peace of Westphalia. This second son David left a son, David Franciscus, who as Captain of Engineers served in the United Netherlands service. He published an Introduction to Universal Geography. David Franciscus left four sons, all of whom served as officers in the Netherlands. One of them, Carolus Friedrich, as Lieutenant-Colonel, in 1741, participated in the campaign in Louisiana, in America. In 1670 George Wunderlich, of this family, was governor of the province of Tscherlitz.

The destruction of all records, private as well as public, which occurred during the Thirty Years' War and the wars which followed, makes it impossible to establish the connection between these Wunderlichs and Johannes Wunderlich, of Ludwigsburg, Wurtemberg, who was the ancestor of the Wunderlichs in America, but there is no doubt that the latter was descended from the same stock.

Johannes Wunderlich was born in the year 1700. In 1720 he married Anna Barbara Densler, of Oswail. She was born in 1702 and died February 1, 1765. Their home was in Ludwigsburg, in the Kingdom of Wurtemberg, where Johannes Wunderlich was the Overseer and General Foreman in the King's workyard. There were thirteen children born to them, of whom seven died in infancy. Two of their sons, John and Daniel, emigrated to America, the former arriving at Philadelphia on the ship "Duke of Wurtemberg," October 16, 1751, and the latter on September 26, 1753, on the ship "Brothers." John was eighteen years of age when he came to America and Daniel sixteen.

In connection with John's coming to America there is a curious family tradition for which, however, no corroborative evidence can be found. According to the story, when John Wunderlich came to America he was accompanied by a sister and her husband. As John was but a boy of eighteen, his father entrusted to the brother-in-law the money with which to pay for John's passage and the other expenses of the journey. When the ship arrived at Philadelphia and many of the passengers were being sold at auction, to pay for their passage as Redemptioners, the brother-in-law decided to retain the money given to him by the elder Wunderlich and let the young John be sold as a Redemptioner. When John's sister learned of this determination on the part of her husband, she absolutely refused to leave the ship until her brother's passage money and other expenses had been paid. As has been said, there is no evidence to substantiate this story. but it is a tradition that has been handed down and was told by a grand-daughter of the emigrant. There is no record to show that John Wunderlich was accompanied by a sister when he came to this country, but nothing is known of the history of two of his older sisters, Jacobina Elizabeth and Christina Magdalena, and it is possible that one of these sisters figured in the incident.

The two brothers, John and Daniel, settled in what was then Lancaster, now Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, where they engaged in farming. They married sisters, daughters of Johann Albrecht Siechele and his wife Eva Elizabeth. Later they both removed to Cumberland county, near Carlisle, Pa.

During the Revolutionary War John Wunderlich served as a private in the Pennsylvania Militia, August 12, 1777, his name appears as a member of Captain Samuel Cochran's company of the Fourth Battalion, commanded by Colonel Robert Elder, and April 16, 1781, he was under the same officers in the Tenth Battalion, Lancaster County Militia.

There are few families in America descended from early colonial emigrants that do not have a tradition concerning a large sum of money left by some early ancestor, which is held in trust by some European government, awaiting proof of ownership on the part of the heirs, and the Wunderlich family is no exception to this rule. According to the story Eberhardt Gottlieb Wunderlich, the youngest son of Johannes Wunderlich, who died in 1792, left a large sum of money to his unmarried daughter, Anna Barbara Frederika. She died in 1812, without a will, the money going to the heirs of her father's brothers and sisters. This money, which in the course of many years was said to have increased until it amounted to between eight and ten million dollars, was supposed to be invested in a railroad running between Stuttgart and Ludwigsburg. At different times a number of members of the family have tried to locate the "fortune" without success. There is a story to the effect that John Wunderlich, the emigrant, at the time of his death in 1818, was preparing to make a trip to Germany to see about getting the money; but as at this time he was 85 years of age it is scarcely likely that he would undertake such a journey. By nearly all the members of the family the story of the "fortune" is regarded as mythical, though a few hold to the idea that the money was there but was obtained by the heirs of the sisters who remained in Germany.

A. 8. JOHN WUNDERLICH.

John Wunderlich, the eighth child of Johannes and Barbara (Densler) Wunderlich, was born at Ludwigsburg, Wurtemberg, April 14, 1733. At the age of eighteen he emigrated to America arriving at Philadelphia in the ship "Duke of Wurtemberg," October 16, 1751. He settled in what was then Lancaster county, now Lebanon, near Palmyra, Pennsylvania, where he engaged in farming. Later he removed to Cumberland county, near Carlisle, where he died September 3, 1818. January 11, 1757, he was married by Rev. John Casper Stoevers, to Maria Elizabeth, second daughter of John Albrecht Siechele. She was born December 13, 1739 and died November 23, 1818. John Wunderlich and his wife were originally buried in the old Lutheran graveyard at Carlisle, but about 1890 this graveyard was abandoned, and their remains, with those of their sons, John Dietrich and Christopher, were removed to the south-east corner of the addition to the old public graveyard at Carlisle. The original tombstones of brownstone are still standing and are well preserved. John Wunderlich had eleven children.

B. 1. JOHN DIETRICH WONDERLICH.

John Dietrich Wunderlich, the oldest child of Johannes and Maria Elizabeth (Siechele) Wunderlich, was born near Palmyra, Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, November 11, 1757. He was baptized December 10, 1757, the witnesses being J. D. Morrell and wife. He later removed with his parents to Middlesex township, Cumberland county, where he purchased a farm on which he lived until his death which occurred December 10, 1829. He married, April 1, 1784, Anna Margaret, daughter of Peter and Anna Margaret (Stoever) Yetter. She was born in Lebanon county July 19, 1766, and died May 11, 1840.

During the Revolutionary War John Dietrich Wonderlich, in 1777, along with his father, served as a private in Captain Samuel Cochran's company of the Fourth Battalion, Lancaster county militia, commanded by Colonel Robert Elder. September 1780 he is recorded as a private in Captain Michael Simpson's company of the First Pennsylvania Regiment, commanded by Colonel Thomas Robinson.*

John Dietrich Wonderlich was an honest, upright man and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. His last years were spent in quietude on his farm, where he was always glad to receive his relatives and other friends who felt free to call upon him. He and his wife were members of the Evangelical Lutheran church at Carlisle, Pa. His wife survived him and after his death removed to Carlisle where she spent the remainder of her days. Both were buried originally in the old Lutheran graveyard at Carlisle and their remains were afterward reinterred in the old public graveyard. He died intestate and his estate was administered on by his son Frederick.

John Dietrich Wonderlich had eight children.

B. 10. DANIEL WUNDERLICH.

This is to Certify, that Daniel Wunderlich of Alleghen Township, Cumberland County, with Betty Kissecker of Allen Township, Pa. were Married by the present Minister of the High Dutch Lutheran Congregation, the 24th day of December 1805, and thus according to law. Witness my hand.

Frederick Sanno.

Daniel Wunderlich, the tenth child of John and Maria Elizabeth (Siechele) Wunderlich, was born near what is now Palmyra, Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, on January 21, 1779. He followed farming as an occupation. About the opening of the Nineteenth Century the town of Palmyra, then known as Palmstown, was founded by General Palm. In 1804 the United States Government established a post office at Palmstown and Gen. Palm was appointed postmaster. He died about three years later and Daniel Wunderlich was appointed his successor. The latter's commission as "Deputy Post Master" is signed by Gideon Granger, at that time Postmaster General, and is dated January 26, 1807.

Daniel Wunderlich was married at Carlisle, Pa., December 24, 1805, to Anna Catherine Kissecker, daughter of Nicholas and Anna Margaret (Livingood) Kissecker,* of Allen township, Cumberland county. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Frederick Sanno, of the Lutheran church at Carlisle.

At some time during the second decade of the century Daniel Wunderlich removed to Franklin county, where he purchased the property known as the Black Horse tavern, at Herron's Branch, near Orrstown, on that part of the great thoroughfare between Philadelphia and Pittsburg, known as the "Three Mountain Road." Here he resided until his death which occurred on March 3, 1844. The Black Horse Inn was one of the well known places of entertainment for man and beast which dotted that thoroughfare at short intervals. During the Whiskey Insurrection on his return journey from the western part of Pennsylvania, General Washington stopped for dinner at the Black Horse Inn, at that time kept by Daniel Nevin, and as it is recorded, ate an "old-fashioned pot-pie, which was ready," and enjoyed it.

*Anna Margaret Livingood, (b. May 29, 1755; d. November 20, 1824) who married Nicholas Kissecker, (b. December 16, 1744; d. August 6, 1803) was a grand-daughter of Jacob and Margaretha Löwengut, who were killed and scalped by Indians at Tulpehocken, April 6, 1758.

Daniel Wunderlich and his wife are buried at Shippensburg, Pa.

*John D. Imboden was Captain of the Staunton Artillery, which was among the first troops to reach Harper's Ferry when it was seized by the Virginia forces immediately after the passage of the ordinance of secession. The company had been organized about the time of the John Brown raid. When Gen. Joseph E. Johnston organized the Army of the Valley, Imboden's battery was attached to Bee's brigade and took part in the first battle of Bull Run. The next year Imboden was made a Colonel and organized a command known as the Virginia Partisan Rangers. April 13, 1863, he was made a Brigadier General, and in the Gettysburg campaign he raided on the left flank of Lee's army, and on the retreat made a determined stand at Williamsport until Fitz Hugh Lee came up, saving the trains and wounded of Lee's army. July 21, 1863, he was assigned to the command of the Valley District, Stonewall Jackson's old District. Until the close of the war he took a prominent part in all the campaigns in the Valley of Virginia.
